Jacqueline,

The denial is from a neighbor that is towards the main canal from the variance requestor. Even if the requestor blocked the entire canal the denial neighbor would not be affected.

I have visited the site by land and boat and see no undue hazard created by the variance request. Let me know if you would like more detail.

Thanks,
Eric

Hi Eric,

I am sending this to you for review. The variance has moved forward and one of the neighbors has filed a denial I am hoping you can take a look at the denial and let me know your input on this.
